

Abstract

The device and method of the present invention configures a gaming device to have an improved data input key set to facilitate the players wagering activity according to one or more wagering systems such as Martingale, Anti-Martingale and others. The device and method can also configure a processor to detect wagering according a system and thereafter display the suggested next wager according to the system.

5